Upper Androscoggin seen as potential tourism focus for northern White Mts.

- Berlin park celebrates industrial heritage
- AMC study looks to further possibilities

By ALISON ALOISIO

Of all the man-made obstacles a river must pass on its way to the sea, many people now believe state lines are the most artificial and unnecessary.

Working from that perspective, two recent initiatives have been launched to enhance the economic base and cultural heritage of the Upper Androscoggin Valley -- on both sides of the Maine/New Hampshire state line.

A new Appalachian Mountain Club project will promote cooperation between the forest products industry and tourism businesses along the Androscoggin River. Meanwhile, a forest-industry heritage park in Berlin is already attracting tourists.

The AMC recently hired a team of three resource professionals with expertise in rural economic development, outdoor recreation conservation, and tourism. They will identify opportunities for tourism-based economic development that would augment existing businesses in the Androscoggin River Valley.

"Throughout this project, we're hoping our experience in recreation and tourism will help to complement existing business and industry throughout the region, and we're hoping to identify places where partnerships between the forest products industry and tourism related businesses can be developed," said Marcel Polak, field director for the AMC's Upper Androscoggin Valley Project.

The UAVP is an effort to build public awareness and appreciation for the Androscoggin River and to identify, promote, and attract recreation and conservation-based economic development to the Maine and New Hampshire communities along the river.

The resource consultants are working with residents and a local advisory team of business and community leaders from Berlin, Gorham and Errol, N.H. and Bethel.

The project is funded by a grant to the AMC from the Ford Foundation.

Park highlights logging heritage

The Northern Forest Heritage Park in Berlin is already making progress toward blending tourism and forest-industry heritage in the Androscoggin Valley.

The park is in the second year of a five-year development, and is intended as both an economic initiative and a historic preservation project.

The project currently offers tours of the city and the Crown Vantage Pulp & Paper Mills. Other planned attractions include interpretive trails, a logging camp and bateau (boat) rides on the Androscoggin.

Organizers believe the park has the potential to become the tourism anchor of the Northern White Mountains area, generating more jobs as it progresses.

U.S.P.S. seeks more public input on site for Bethel's post office

- Meeting set for Monday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The U.S. Postal Service has agreed to hold yet another meeting to discuss the future location of the Bethel Post Office.

The meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 26 at 7 p.m. in the Crescent Park School cafeteria.

U.S.P.S. real estate specialist Terry Brooks, who suggested the meeting, said he hoped it would generate additional public comment on the post office site, as well as provide a forum for the postal service to air its concerns.

This will be the fourth time the U.S.P.S. has come to town to discuss the location of a new facility.

Space in the present building is too limited, according to the postal service, and employees are forced to work under unsafe conditions.

In February the postal service put out a request for proposals for an enlarged building (which would be leased for 20 years, with three additional five-year options).

Four proposals were received by the April deadline, but three were rejected as too expensive or offering too little space.

But the fourth site, in Bethel Station, received a strong endorsement from the U.S.P.S. That site is near the railroad tracks across from the end of Mechanic Street.

At a meeting with the selectmen in May, Brooks said the Bethel Station site best met the postal service's requirements, and it was, Brooks said, a direction in which the postal service felt the town would be growing.

No proposal was submitted in April for remodeling or rebuilding on the present site.

In his May meeting with selectmen, Brooks said postal service experts had evaluated the present building with an eye toward rehabilitating it under a new owner.

They concluded, he said, "that it's just not viable."

But the selectmen balked at the prospect of the post office being moved from the village proper.

And they cited a November petition in which 600 people expressed satisfaction with the present site and opposition to any relocation outside the "Traditional Village of Bethel." (The proposed Bethel Station site is adjacent to the northern boundary of the "traditional village," as delineated in a map circulated with the petition.)

The selectmen at first supported a proposed Mason Street site, a site which had been rejected by the U.S.P.S. because of its cost and the potential disruption of the residential character of its neighborhood.

But the board soon returned its attention to the present site on Main Street, arguing that a proposal could be developed that would meet the postal service's requirements without the need to move the facility.

At a second meeting with the selectmen, in July, Brooks agreed that an acceptable proposal could possibly be worked out for the present site. (Though the discussion at that point was of a new, rather than renovated, building.)

Brooks agreed to put off a decision long enough to allow a potential developer to purchase the building and come up with a proposal.

But he also said this week that a decision needs to be made "in the immediate future" (he declined to define "immediate").

Glidden buys the building

By MICHAEL DANIELS

At a foreclosure auction Friday, Carl Glidden was the sole and successful bidder for the Main Street building that houses the present Bethel Post Office.

Glidden, owner of the abutting Bethel Foodliner, said he hopes to be able to remodel the building -- known as the Naimoy Building -- and extend its lease on life as a post office (see related story).

The auction drew three dozen people, who filled a narrow enclosed porch in the second floor rear of the building.

But there were only three registered bidders: Glidden, Bethel Station developer Henne Merrill, and a representative of Northeast Bank, which had foreclosed on the building.

Of the three, Glidden was the only one to bid -- at the opening price of $125,000. In addition to that figure, he will pay approximately $20,000 to the town in back taxes and sewer and water bills.

The building is valued by the town at $240,300. It houses, in addition to the post office, a video-rental store and hair-styling salon on the first floor, and apartment units on the second.

Henley honored as Maine manager of the year

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley has been named Maine's 1996 town manager of the year.

The Maine Town & City Management Association (MTCMA) awarded Henley the Line Stackpole Manager of the Year Award during the New England Management Institute held last week at Sugarloaf USA.

Henley has been Bethel's town manager since December 1990. Her current contract runs through June 1997.

Prior to coming to Bethel, she was the administrative assistant to the Board of Selectmen in Antrim, N.H.

Expect 'sticker shock' with new Supt.

By ALISON ALOISIO

A dwindling supply of school superintendents may leave the School Board with few choices -- and a higher price tag -- for the SAD44 position, according to a Maine School Management Association official.

Current Superintendent Ron Jenkins plans to take a new position on Oct. 1. The board met Monday night to decide on a hiring procedure. Also at the meeting were MSMA representatives, who advised directors on the process.

Four years ago, boards could expect 40 or 50 applicants for a superintendent's position. MSMA's Paul Brunelle told the board. But now,

'It sounds like you'll have to kick up the salary considerably.'

PAUL BRUNELLE
Maine School
Management Association

he said, "that won't happen. You'll be lucky if you get 20."

He said some districts get less than 10, and many applicants are not exceptionally well-qualified.

Asked why the decline in numbers, Brunelle said that although there are many certified superintendents, "the job is not a very attractive one. It's tough work. They don't want to do it."

He said that out of 190 superintendents' positions statewide, 100 have changed in the past three years.

Offering higher salaries to superintendents might help, Brunelle said. "I'm not sure the salary will do it, but it won't hurt," he said.

His summer vacation: north to Yellowknife, by bike

By ALISON ALOISIO

Keith Giles' friend thought it would be a good place for some motorcyclists to get together and share a couple of beers.

Three thousand, eight hundred miles later, Giles was there -- just south of the Arctic Circle in Yellowknife, Northwest Territories.

Giles, who lives in Bethel, took the month of July off and rode his 1971 BMW motorcycle 10,000 miles.

"I had wanted to go out west this year anyway. When Mike (Marston, a friend from Turner) suggested Yellowknife, I said 'why not.'"

Marston was trying to organize a bike rally in the capital of the Northwest Territories. He put a notice in a BMW newsletter.

There was some talk early on of Maine bikers traveling in a small group, but individual schedules wouldn't allow it. Giles left on his own on July 2.

Averaging 500 miles a day, he pitched a tent each night in camping areas. It was exhausting riding a bike that steadily.

"Sometimes I'd set up the tent, and not even eat. You wonder why you even set up the tent -- just to keep the dew off, I guess," he said.

His route kept him in the U.S. until he reached North Dakota, where he crossed into Saskatchewan.

"It was all canola fields -- a big carpet of yellow," Giles said. "They told me they use extra canola oil (instead of water) to keep the dust down on the roads."

He crossed the MacKenzie River in the Northwest Territories on a ferry.

"In the winter, they travel on ice roads. They plow right across the rivers and lakes," he said.

The pavement turned to dirt road in Fort Providence, N.W.T., 50 miles south of Yellowknife. Giles had picked up a few biking companions by then. One, a fellow-Mainer, was from Perry. The others were a married couple from British Columbia.

"They were 30 years old. Last year they went to South America," Giles said.

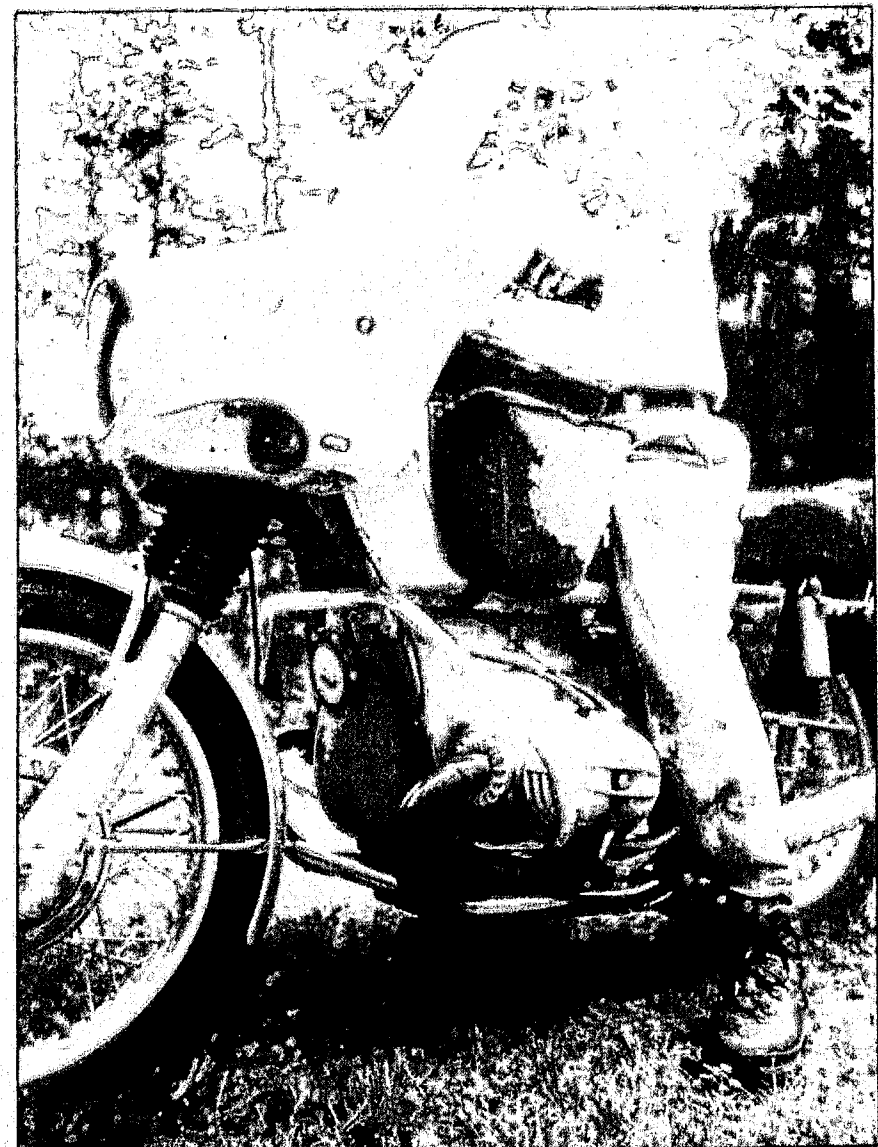

The last leg of the journey was a tough one. Road construction was underway -- without benefit of flaggers to keep drivers and equipment separated. "We had to weave around the construction equipment," he said.

Water trucks sprayed the road to keep the dust down, but in Giles' opinion, they were too enthusiastic about it. "It was too much. It was like mud. I passed a trailer truck, and didn't duck in time," he said. "I was covered in mud."

Finally, seven days after Giles left Maine, Yellowknife came into sight. "You get to the end of the dirt road, and there's this big city," Giles said.

A BICENTENNIAL TO REMEMBER

To the Editor:

As noted by several writers in last week's letters to the editor, Bethel's Bicentennial weekend, Aug. 9-11, was all we had hoped it would be; the weather was perfect and the large crowd and positive comments from everyone made all of our hard work over the past months worthwhile. We, as vice-chairmen of the event, would like to extend our sincere thanks to everyone who was involved.

The Bicentennial Pageant was fantastic! To Nan Timberlake, Linda Stowell, Rachel MacKay, Arlene Brown, to all the great actors, actresses and singers, to everyone who helped out backstage, with advance preparations, and lending costumes and props -- thank you so much for contributions to a wonderful evening of entertainment. It will be talked about and remembered for years to come.

Ellen Whitney, Rhonda Buker, and the parade/music committee are very deserving of praise for the great job they did organizing the biggest and best parade that Bethel has ever seen. All of the bands, floats, puppets and other participants were wonderful, as was the musical entertainment on the common during the afternoon and evening.

Special thanks go to John Head, June Abbott, Mary Keniston, Christine Greenleaf, Joan Greenleaf Wright, Kate Nickerson, Jim Rose, Sandy and Scott Dennis, Amy Davis, Norma Salway, Marilyn Swan, Darlene Baker, Margie Finley, Ruth Feeney, Polly Davis, Freda Davis and Dick Taylor for helping at the souvenir tables during the day, and to Stan Howe and his house guests for moving and setting up tables under the tent.

Thanks to Marilyn Swan for organizing the old-time children's games; to Helen Morton for the art show; to the Ancient Ones for the living history and demonstrations; to the organizers of the horseshoe pitching contest; to everyone who demonstrated old-time crafts; to all who displayed their antique cars; and to the Methodist and Congregational churches for sponsoring supper.

Hope Tibbitts, of the food committee, did a great job coordinating the food booths that were on the common, and we thank her, as well as the Lion's Club, the CPS/PTA, the CPS 5th Grade Parents, Pleasant Valley Grange, and friends of TMS who set up to feed the hungry crowd.

The fireworks display that topped off the day was truly spectacular, and we would like to thank Atlas Advanced Pyrotechnics for the wonderful show. Thanks, also, to Gould Academy, Barbara Lapham, and Maynard Morgan for use of the field and help with planning; to Officer Gene Allen, Kevin McMahon, the Bethel Fire Department; Scott and Sandy Dennis; and to several of my cousins who helped us clean up the athletic fields on Sunday.

The next major project of the Bicentennial Committee is a souvenir booklet containing photos of all the bicentennial-related activities as well as lists of town officials, committee members, and other information about Bethel to serve as a record of what the town was like at the time of its 200th Birthday. We are now seeking individuals and businesses who would like to be a part of this project by acting as sponsors, so that we can keep the retail price of the book as low as possible. Everyone making a donation of $10 or more will be listed in the book as a sponsor; it's a great way to help preserve Bethel's history and also become a part of it. Sponsor sheets are available at the Dr. Moses Mason House or by calling 824-2049. If anyone has photos of bicentennial events that they would like to share for possible use in the booklet, they can contact Donna Nickerson at 824-2049 or Stanley Howe at 824-2049.

HOUSE AND GARDEN TOUR THANKS

To the Editor:

Janet Black, chair of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee's House and Garden Tour and Flower Show, has asked that I thank on her behalf all those who made the event such a success with over 80 participants.

Among those deserving thanks are Key Bank and George O. Hayes and Sons Landscaping, for their donation to cover printing costs, Sam and Nan Timberlake for their outstanding coverage of the flower workshop and homes for Channel Four, Jim Rose for his publicity in the bicentennial column, Duane Hayes for his role in getting articles and photos into the Sun-Journal/Sunday, Mike Daniels for his cooperation in publicizing the event in the Bethel Citizen, and the Maine Press for all their printing assistance.

Special thanks are also due the homeowners who allowed tours of their properties: Peter and Victoria Phillips, Frank and Jane Vogt, Dick and Sally Taylor, Mary Jo and Ed Kennett, Dana and Barbara Douglas, Eva Ladd School, Al and Lee Barth, Jack and Lucy Nordahl, Florence Hastings, Rodney and Geraldine Howe, the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society, and West Bethel Union Church.

Appreciation is due the Lincon Flower Shop for their outstanding flower arranging workshop and those who participated: Persis Post, Connie Thurston, June Abbott, Alice McInnis, Cheri Thurston, Mary Keniston, Carole Duplessis, Charlotte Copeland, Jane Langlois, and Eva Ladd School.

Also deserving much gratitude for hosting the tours are Susan Herlihy, Connie Thurston, George and Donna Nickerson, Jane Langlois, Polly Davis, Lucia Schwarz, Shireen Vincent, Lorrie Hoch, June Abbott, Becky Kendall, Jane Hosterman, Barbara Honkala, Barbara Mahler, Marna McGinniss, Ginger Kelly, Dot Bartlett, Persis Post, Mary Keniston, Jackie Vanheven, Jo Baker, Cheri Thurston, Mary Alice Bancroft, Virginia Gamble, Elizabeth Mason Carter, and Becky Bailey.

Donations of floral arrangements were also received from Emerald Florist, Poth Corner, Unicorn Flower Shop, Davis Florist, Country Rose, Courtney's Goodschmidt's, and In Full Bloom.

Flower judges for the day were Faith Webster and Rebecca Linney, who traveled from Cape Neddick to participate.

Finally, on behalf of the Bicentennial Committee, I wish to give much credit to Janet Black for making Bethel's first house and garden tour such a success. Congratulations, Janet, for a job superbly done.

PIGEON RESCUE--If a banded pigeon lands on your lawn, looking hungry, call Norman Dock. Thousands of "racing homers" are trained in this part of Maine and nearby New Hampshire, Dock said, often on flights covering hundreds of miles. Occasionally some birds lose their way and turn up in barnyards, near bird feeders or anywhere else they can get some food. The domesticated birds cannot fend for themselves in the wild, Dock said, and if they are not fed they will die. Dock, shown here with two of his own pigeons, currently has two other birds that were found in this area, one from New Hampshire, one from the Livermore Falls area. He'll be returning those to their owners, and will be happy to do the same for any others that alight hereabouts -- providing their new hosts first catch the birds. To do that, he recommends using a small nut or the time-honored trick of propping a box up with a small stick, tying a string to the stick, putting some feed under the box and pulling out the stick when the pigeon goes under the box. Dock can be reached at 824-2778.

STOP POISONING THE VEGETATION AND WILDLIFE

To the Editor:

July 5, 1995 (then again in July of 1996), a gorgeous summer day. Riding home to North Newry my view of my world suddenly changed forever. I came up behind a state truck towing a large tank of broad-leaf defoliant. There was a young man standing on the trailer, spraying this potentially dangerous and deadly liquid, literally onto the road side. The next day, the same truck finished its job near my home. Please try to understand, I spend my evenings in the spring and summer, riding up and down the road into Grafton Notch, enjoying the view and especially the wildlife.

The deer and moose in this area have become very familiar to me and my family. These magnificent creatures are browsers. In other words, they feed on the broad-leaf plants that we, as taxpayers, are paying the state to spray and get rid of. This year I also noticed something else: fewer babies. The moose population in the area seems to have fewer babies than ever before. I also noticed a couple different moose with strange, abnormal fleshy growths on their bodies.

Please let's all wake up. What is happening here? If those short bushes are truly such trouble, let's put some able-bodied welfare recipients to work with bush clippers. Then we can all enjoy the wildlife and spectacular view of the area, instead of blotches of dead, dried-up plant life and deformed babies!

The greater part of North Newry and Grafton is a watershed flowing its way into hundreds of unsuspecting people's water supplies. I would rather not drink this chemical in my water. Agent Orange was once considered safe -- what is this chemical? What did the federal government ever do with all the thousands upon thousands of barrels of Agent Orange after the Vietnam War? Are we as citizens of the state of Maine, and who knows where else, allowing this toxin to be used on us? Please, let's stop this insanity before it's too late. Let's put some needy people to work now, with bush clippers, instead of supporting a chemical company somewhere, and several doctors and hospitals later when our citizens end up with a new rare cancer. Someone, somewhere please listen. Please help!

WHAT'S UP AT THE GATEWAY

To the Editor:

The community will soon see some activity on the "Gateway" property (the intersection of Route 26 and Middle Intervale Road), which the Mahoosuc Land Trust purchased last fall.

There is now a mowed path around the outer edge of the property which is open for the walking public. The next step is the restoration of the hay field on the western part of the property, the triangular field extending from the row of trees along the drainage ditch to the road intersection. This will involve bush hogging, filling and applying limestone, fertilizer and seed.

The board of the Trust decided on this course as the result will keep the land open, produce a useful product, require a minimum of maintenance and provide an attractive foreground for the great view of the interval and surrounding hills.

CLEAN UP CEMETERY FLOWERS

To the Editor:

On Aug. 7 my sister and I went to Lake Side Cemetery in Bryant Pond to clip the grass around our parents' gravestone.

The beauty of the cemetery was spoiled by all the dried-up, dead flowers by so many graves. We think it is a wonderful tradition to recognize our departed loved ones by placing flowers by their graves for Memorial Day. However, it is equally important to either remove the flowers or care for them on a regular basis throughout the summer. Plastic flowers fade and should probably also be removed.

Some assembly required

By MIKE BROWN

Remember those Christmas and birthday gifts you bought for the kids? The ones with the big rainbow-hued box depicting some marvelous mechanical contraption? So self-assured by your purchase, you forgot to read the fine print on the box?

On Christmas or birthday morning, the gift wrap was ripped away, the box was opened and out spilled seemingly hundreds of pieces and a confounded instruction sheet that said ominously, some assembly required!

After a couple of frustrating hours, you decided that you had been conned by false advertising.

That is exactly what Maine Governor Angus King is "gifting" to Maine people and the Maine Legislature with his "Act to Implement the Compact for Maine's Forest." This is the much-ballyhooed "compact coalition" or "competing measure" which, if the legislature buys the box, it will appear simultaneously on the November referendum with the Green Party's so-called clearcutting referendum.

King's proposed bill is 20 pages in length and perhaps some 4,000 forestry gobbledygook words that Smokey the Bear would find treacherously tinker dry.

The clearcutting referendum was already a whirlpool of tree formulas, basal areas, tree stands, forest management land and practices away from its legal owners and into the hands, minds and self-interest practices of corporate environmental preservationist land grabbers.

All the rest is moose pucker.

The issue is now so confusing that nobody understands what the hell is going on. And that includes the 186 legislators who will assemble on a $170 per day, per legislator public tax payroll beginning Sept. 5, to vote on King's self-serving forestry compact.

The shopping list of stuffing ingredients for King's proposed turkey is fairly simple. When the Green's referendum sailed through the signature waters under full sail and the first poll was taken, it showed that "clearcutting" would win hands down.

The big Maine forest land owners had pretty much ignored the Green's as irritating but harmless, as assaulers of their centuries-old forestry management. Seeing the poll, they panicked.

In the meantime, the Democrats ignored the issue in their convention plank and King was going to let the politically-explosive issue drift into the forest fog. But the Republicans at their convention came out strongly against the Greens. And the forestry business began a catch-up, expensive media campaign against the referendum.

The polls shifted dramatically against the Green's referendum. King had to appease everybody or take a hit on his re-election campaign. His strategy was to throw the political hot spud to the legislators and let them take the blame for whichever way the woods road turned.

By crafting his extremely confusing compact bill with invited token participants, the governor has built himself a win-win rampart because whichever way it goes, win or lose, King can extract himself from the dilemma.

King's armored strategy has also been adopted by many Democrats who now see the poll carvings on the forest trees. Senator Susan Longley, Democrat of Liberty, leads a splinter group of mostly D's which wants to redeem the D's convention stiffing of the referendum, and salvage personal election points, of course.

If the public is confused, they are in astute legal company. The Maine Supreme Court, which has been asked, doesn't seem to know what the hell to make of the forestry maelstrom. The law court answers are crunched in jeopardy.

Maine legislators, summoned to a September seminar on Green power, gubernatorial politics and lame duckery windbags should stuff King's forestry compact and get the hell out of town.

Greenwood gets new SAD44 director

GREENWOOD--David Sterns of Locke Mills was appointed last night (Tuesday) by selectmen to the SAD44 School Board, according to Town Manager Liz Lavallette. He replaces Brad Payne, who resigned in June.

WAAA seeks volunteer driver

BETHEL--The Western Area Agency on Aging is looking for a volunteer driver to transport up to five people one morning a week (Tuesdays or Thursdays) from Gilead and West Bethel to the Bethel senior meal site and grocery shopping. Mileage will be reimbursed. Call 1-800-427-1241 for more information.

Bethel gets insurance dividends

BETHEL--The Maine Municipal Association will return more than $2,000 to the Town of Bethel as a member of the MMA Workers Compensation Fund and Property & Casualty Pool. MMA is sending dividend checks totaling over $470,000 statewide to cities, towns and special districts that have positive claims experience and that have met participation criteria in its self-insurance pools. Bethel will receive a $1,264 dividend check from the Workers Compensation Fund and $802 from its participation in the Property & Casualty Pool, according to the MMA. The dividends are possible because of Bethel's commitment to safety and loss control and because of changes made to the workers compensation laws in 1992. Members of the self-insurance programs make contributions to the pools, which earn investment interest. Contributions not paid out in claims or used for administration can be returned to the members.

Meeting Tuesday on zoning revisions

NEWRY--A special Town Meeting is scheduled for Aug. 27 to consider a revised shoreland zoning ordinance, which, if adopted, could allow a couple to build a home next to the Bear River. The Planning Board had ruled that David and Pauline Ouellette could not build on their 150-foot-frontage lot. The town ordinance requires 200 feet of frontage. The revised ordinance could allow construction if the lot meets septic disposal requirements. Planning Board member Art Marshall said that otherwise the proposed changes to the ordinance do not contain anything "earthshaking." The meeting is at 7 p.m. at the R.C. Foster Municipal Building.

Help sought in getting signal

WOODSTOCK--Town manager Vern Maxfield told selectmen last week he would enlist the help of Sen. Norman K. Ferguson Jr. (R-Hanover) to try to get a flashing traffic signal installed at the intersection of Rumford Avenue and Route 26. Belmont House, a resident who lives near the corner, had told selectmen in May that the intersection poses a danger to pedestrians trying to cross Route 26. But MDOT officials said the intersection does not have a high enough accident rate to install a signal.

Second kindergarten class considered

WOODSTOCK--Principal Bruce Bell was authorized by the School Board last week to investigate the possibility of an afternoon kindergarten class at the Woodstock Elementary School. More registrations than expected brought the one morning class up to 19 students, which is greater than the recommended number for that age group. Bell is expected to report back to the board Monday with the plan.

Water options kept open

ANDOVER--Sixty voters decided last week to keep open the option of withdrawing from the Andover Water District if costs for supplying the town's fire hydrants increase. The fee is currently $20,000, but may increase to approximately $33,000 to help finance a new water source to comply with the Safe Drinking Water Act. Selectman Dick Plantier said he was told by a state official that changes in the new drinking water law could allow the state to "rescind some of the more onerous conditions on small water districts." He recommended waiting to see what the long-term implications would be before making a final decision. He also said he was told that in the event of withdrawal, if the town and water district could not agree on withdrawal costs to the town the Public Utilities Commission would arbitrate.

Stricter eviction plan OK'd

ANDOVER--Townpeople last week approved a tougher eviction policy for failure to pay taxes. The Board of Selectmen had previously allowed delinquent taxpayers to go on a payment plan to pay back money in installments, but some people have not stayed with the plan. The tougher version would provide for eviction after failure to follow the payment plan.

Rabid skunks chase people, animals

WATERFORD--Three incidents involving rabid skunks were reported in Waterford within the past two weeks. In two of the cases the skunks chased people or animals, and were finally shot. They were the first reported cases in Waterford. Another report of a skunk behaving aggressively came from Oxford. Sixty-five cases of rabies have been reported in Maine so far this year.

DEP to reduce Nobleboro tire pile

AUGUSTA--Cleanup crews are working to reduce the public health and environmental hazards posed by 1.6 million scrap tires at the Pine State Tire Recycling facility in Nobleboro. The company had formerly shredded tires for use as an alternative fuel, but went out of business in 1993. About 30 to 50 percent of the tires will be transported to other facilities by the end of September. DEP commissioner Edward Sullivan said the threat of fire, groundwater contamination and mosquito breeding motivated DEP's effort. Future remediation for Nobleboro and other tire piles depend on the outcome of a November referendum. Voters will be asked to approve funding for more remediation through Maine's issuance of bonds in the amount of $5 million.

Too many cats at shelter

WATERVILLE--Over the past two weeks, 115 cats have been euthanized at the Waterville Area Humane Society. Shelter workers who decide which cats are put to sleep say they can't remember a more heart-breaking month. "When every pen is filled, every cage, and you've got people lined up bringing in 10 cats, you have to make space," said Executive Director Paula Mitchell. "They're looking up at you with those big brown, green or gold eyes and you're basically signing their death papers." Mitchell said only two cats have been claimed, and 11 have been adopted from the city shelter. More than 20 dogs have been euthanized since the month began, and the kennel is beginning to fill up again, Mitchell said. Last year, 485 dogs and 408 cats were adopted from the shelter. Owners claimed 40 cats and 250 dogs, leaving 1,173 cats and 137 dogs to be put to sleep. Years of work at the shelter haven't made it any easier for Mitchell, who still has nightmares about the animals being put to sleep.

Ski indoors in Ohio

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio--The developers of the world's largest dome structure have announced plans to build an indoor ski resort in Fayette County. Kevin Ferris, president of Ski Trac International, said last week the $120 million resort featuring a rotating 1,000-foot ski slope and mountain range will take two years to build once funding is secured. Ferris hopes the Ski Trac will be the first of its kind in the world. The Ski Trac's rotating deck continuously passes through a freezing snow chamber, which manufactures the snow. As the skier moves down the slope, the track moves upward so the person can ski for a longer time in an enclosed space, said Ferris. The revolving track would move at speeds of up to 20 miles per hour, he said. The ski area can hold 850 people at one time. The technology eliminates the need for ski lifts and provides a climate of 45 degrees.

In suggesting that another meeting be held, Brooks said he has received "a very mixed message" regarding the feelings of people in town.

Both supporters and opponents of the present site on Main Street have written to argue their case, he said.

The final decision on a site will not be based on a popularity contest, Brooks said, but the postal service still wanted to get as much feedback as possible from residents.

He also said he wanted to be sure the public understood the postal service's needs and considerations.

"We hope to be able to bring up our concerns to a larger audience," he said of Monday's meeting, "but we may just end up talking to the same people."

P.O. Building

Glidden was also the successful bidder on a second property auctioned Friday, a 2.2-acre parcel of land off the Old County Road in Greenwood.

The parcel is valued by the town at $8,600. One-hundred and thirty six dollars in back taxes were due.

Both the building in Bethel and lot in Greenwood were being disposed of by Northeast Bank, which had foreclosed on previous owner Brian Strickland.

From the Bethel Police log:

Juveniles with guns are police target

At 3:39 p.m. on Aug. 17 police were notified that the Gorham, N.H. police had reported a vehicle headed east on Route 2 with four occupants, one of whom reportedly brandished a handgun at a passing motorist. The Bethel police pulled the vehicle over in West Bethel and conducted a pat-down search of each occupant. The officer found a plastic cap gun in the form of a stub-nose .38 revolver in the pants pocket of one subject. A search of the vehicle produced another similar cap gun. The officer also found a plastic cap gun that closely copied a Beretta 92F 9 mm. gun and a metal Daisy .177-caliber pellet gun (not loaded). All were retained as evidence for the Gorham police. One subject admitted to having the pellet gun outside the vehicle -- resting on the window frame -- but denied pointing it at anyone. The subjects, all juveniles, were released to their parents, who were advised of the possibility of criminal prosecution by Gorham.

Wednesday, Aug. 14

At 6:55 p.m. a Mayville resident reported a male subject was pulled over on Route 2 across from the Bottle and Bag Restaurant. He said the driver was possibly intoxicated and it appeared he might pass out. Police located the vehicle traveling east on Route 2. It swerved over the center line, then crossed back over the fog line. The driver, John P. Harrington, 29, of Conway, N.H. was stopped and given a field sobriety test, which he failed. He was arrested for OUI and taken to the Oxford County jail, where he refused a blood alcohol level test.

Friday, Aug. 16

At 11:19 p.m. police observed a vehicle traveling west on Cross St. toward Route 26 at a high rate of speed. It failed to stop at the stop sign. The officer signaled the driver to stop, but he continued and appeared to attempt to elude briefly by speeding up and slowing down twice. He then pulled to the right and stopped. The driver got out of the vehicle and nearly fell to the ground. Carl R. Roberts Jr., 26, of Locke Mills was then arrested for OUI and operating after suspension (habitual offender). He was taken to the Oxford County jail and given a breathalyzer test, with a result of .19. A passenger, Timothy Roberts, was also charged with permitting the unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Saturday, Aug. 17

At 9:05 p.m. police stopped a vehicle on Route 26 for loud exhaust. Other defects included a cracked windshield and inadequate tires. A search of the vehicle produced two marijuana pipes and papers and a foot-long knife. The driver, Michael P. Walker of Locke Mills, was arrested for operating a defective motor vehicle and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was taken to the Oxford County jail.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

PARK HIGHLIGHTS FOREST, RIVER HERITAGE—The Northern Forest Heritage Park in Berlin will build a two-mile interpretive trail along the Androscoggin River. A portion of the walk will be designed to simulate "log walking" on the river. Above is an artist's sketch of the planned trail.

buildings has a population of about 18,000. Gold-, silver- and diamond-mining are its principal industries.) The long-anticipated destination having been reached, what did Giles do?

"Laundry," he said.

That out of the way, he did meet up with some other BMW bikers, for what turned out to be a small-scale rally. Ironically, his friend Mike never made it. "He got as far as Sault Sainte Marie, Mich., and turned back. He had bike trouble," Giles said.

They stayed three days. The Land-of-the-Midnight-Sun lifestyle took a little getting used to.

"People were out there playing horseshoes at 11 at night. I could sit in my tent and read at 1 a.m. They'd get up at 9:30," he said.

The increased amount of daylight does give people an advantage over mosquitoes.

"When you go to bed, you can see them and kill them. You don't have to wait for the buzz," Giles said. But in the morning, "they'd be waiting for you on your screen."

The first heavy wave of the bugs had just come out while he was there.

Giles and company were taken under the wing of a man named Bob, who was a teacher for the Dene People, a native tribe in the area. The group toured the city, visiting the capital building and some museums.

After the third day, they said their goodbyes and went their separate ways. "But we're going back in 2000 to Inuvik, above the Arctic Circle," Giles said.

He then headed south through British Columbia, which he described as having the best scenery of the trip. "Riding through the valleys between the mountains was beautiful," he said.

And in B.C., those "fallen rocks" signs mean business. There are so many on the roads that trucks plow them. "They drop the blades and pop them off the side of the road," Giles said.

His only other stop was in Boulder, Colo. to visit a friend. In that area, temperatures ranged from the high 30s at night to over 100 in the day.

But Giles hardly sweated under his motorcycle helmet. "It was the first time I had experienced 'dry' like that," he said. He lost his brakes for a time in Utah because of the heat.

Heading back east, Giles traveled more at night to avoid traffic through cities like St. Louis. He arrived back in Maine on July 30.

What would he do differently the next time, in 2000? "I'd take two months off," he said.

"Erasing the state line"

Sally Milliken and Kira Jacobs hope they've done their part to promote a realization of the common resources and heritage shared by people along the Androscoggin.

The two graduate students just finished a summer internship in the Bethel area sponsored by the Atlantic Center for the Environment.

But just because their sponsor's name includes the word "environment" does not mean they came here to take sides on environmental resource issues.

Instead, they've tried -- mostly on a person-to-person basis -- to promote dialogue among organizations involved with the river.

That brought them into contact with a wide variety of groups. One day, for instance, they attended a meeting of landowners in Bethel organized by the Maine Audubon Society. Its purpose was to help identify what it termed "special places" and note them on GIS maps.

But the message from some landowners, said Jacobs, was "we don't want our land on your map."

"Then the next day, we went to a meeting of the Northern Forest Alliance at the Bethel Inn. It was quite a contrast," she said.

What are their impressions of the various interest groups?

They said there is a fair amount of suspicion among them. "People need to be listened to and understood," said Jacobs.

"There is a huge range of environmentalists and landowners," said Milliken. "People get labeled, and that needs to be broken down."

In an effort to help that happen, the two are writing a booklet describing the natural resources and history of the area from Errol, N.H., to Bethel -- along the course of the Androscoggin.

"It's a way for people to educate themselves about the region," said Jacobs. The students plan to make the booklet available locally.

They also said that besides the different organizations, the towns along the river have their own interests. Milliken and Jacobs think it would serve everyone better to see the area as a region -- "erasing the state line," they call it.

The students are also enthusiastic about the Northern Forest Heritage Park, and hope people in the Bethel area will take an interest -- and a tour.

From here Jacobs, who is from New Hampshire, goes back to Duke University to continue her studies in environmental management. Milliken, from Massachusetts, returns to Yale University's School of Forestry and Environmental Studies.

"We hope we can apply what we learned," Jacobs said.

Henley

Henley credited the Bethel Town Office staff and other town employees, "for creating an environment that made it possible for me to be selected for this award."

Henley was nominated by her peers in the public management profession. She had also been nominated last year, but this year the vote selecting her for the award was unanimous.

Henley has served in many capacities for MTCMA. She is currently on the MTCMA Board of Directors and is serving as Chair of the Institute Committee. She also served on the MTCMA Professional Development, Range Rider and Public Information committees.

She is also active in the Maine Municipal Association, serving on the Health Trust Board, Legislative Policy Committee, and Advisory Committee. She is also on the executive committees of the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments and Community Concepts.

Four Bethel selectmen, as well as a number of town employees; Henley's husband, David Williams; and other family members from Rhode Island were in attendance to see her receive the award.

A second plaque was presented to the town of Bethel in recognition of Henley's award.

MAINE 1996 MANAGER OF THE YEAR—Augusta City Manager Terry St. Peter presents the Maine Town & City Management Association's 1996 Manager of the Year Award to Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley. Also at the presentation, which took place last week at Sugarloaf USA, were four Bethel selectmen, as well as town employees and Henley's family members. Bob Chadbourne, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, accepted a plaque for the town in recognition of Henley's award.

Superintendent

He also said candidates use the next highest paid administrator in the district as a point of reference, and would likely ask several thousand dollars above the figure.

Jenkins currently makes $56,000, while the next highest administrator salary is approximately $53,000, directors said.

"It sounds like you'll have to kick up the salary considerably," Brunelle said.

The board decided to start the hiring process, but left open the possibility of hiring an interim superintendent if they are not satisfied with the applicants.

Directors spent considerable time debating the makeup of the search committee. They ultimately decided on a panel of up to eight board members, who will be appointed by Aug. 26.

When Jenkins was hired in 1993, a committee of more than 20 people -- ranging from directors to staff to community members -- was involved.

Directors agreed that number is unwieldy, but Newry's Debbie Gilbert favored at least including some administrators and teachers.

She said their professional expertise would be valuable in evaluating candidates.

"What message are we sending administrators -- that we have no respect for them?" she asked.

But Kelly Scotti of Andover said restricting the panel to directors did not show a lack of respect. Woodstock director Margaret Hand argued that it is the board's job to hire superintendents, and the members are qualified.

Other directors said it was not advisable for employees to be directly involved in the hiring of their boss.

They said the process would still allow for input from the staff regarding what qualities to look for in a candidate, as well as any other information directors might seek.

Ski Mt. Abram plans to offer skiing under the lights, snow tubing and ice skating this year

By ALISON ALOISIO

Skiers should be able to carve their turns under the lights this winter at Ski Mt. Abram, as night skiing comes to the Greenwood slopes.

Plans are in the works to light eight to 10 trails three or four nights a week, according to owner Rick Hoddinott. The project is contingent on approval from the Department of Environmental Protection and the town, and on funding approval.

"We're pretty excited about this," said Hoddinott. "The feedback we've had from skiers has been real positive."

Snow tubing and ice skating will also be offered. A 400-foot-long snow tubing slope is already under construction. Hoddinott said variety is the key to his plans.

"It should make the area a lot more attractive to families," he said. Recreation departments could also offer youngsters a variety of activities on a trip to Mt. Abram.

He hopes the variety of offerings will lure people from the Portland area who might otherwise go to Shawnee Peak in Bridgton.

"It will make the extra 15-minute drive worthwhile," said Hoddinott. Hoddinott said the illuminated slopes will give schools the chance to hold night ski races. "We also plan to start a corporate race program," he said.

He hopes local residents will take advantage of the facilities as well.

The night skiing season would run roughly from Christmas vacation week until mid-March. Initially, the slopes would be illuminated Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. On other nights, they would likely be made available for nonprofit groups to rent and sell tickets as a fund-raising project.

The snow-tubing lift will have a capacity of 100 people an hour. A half-pipe for snowboarders will be placed on the side of the same slope, for boarders who don't want to purchase full lift tickets.

The added attractions will increase the mountain's business hours by 42 percent. That, said Hoddinott, would be good for both the ski area and the community.

Two new full-time jobs will be created, as well as more than two dozen part-time positions. Other area businesses can anticipate more nighttime customers as well, he said.

Hoddinott said the ski area is now in the process of assessing any impact of lighting reflected from the snow, as well as "skyglow," on residences within a three-mile radius of the mountain.

"We want to be upfront with folks and see how it impacts them," he said.

Mt. Abram has scheduled an informational meeting for the public on Aug. 29 at 6 p.m. at the ski lodge. Hoddinott urges people to attend.

Cathy Heffernan
NURSE-MIDWIFE JOINS
LOCAL FAMILY PRACTICE

The Riverside Family Practice in Bethel will soon be offering midwifery services with the addition of Cathy Heffernan, a certified nurse-midwife, to their practice. Heffernan has been working since March at Rumford Community Hospital.

Heffernan obtained her undergraduate degree in communications from Lewis and Clark College and a bachelor's degree in nursing from the University of Southern Maine. Her experience as a midwife extends back to 1979 when she became interested in and began attending home births. After 15 years and several hundred births, she went to graduate school to become certified and obtain her master's degree in nursing.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens met on Aug. 14 at Powell's Campground in Hanover with 63 present. Helen Saunders announced the trip to the Gray Animal Farm, with car-pooling, is Aug. 21. The Fall Foliage Trip is Oct. 16 and a sign-up sheet is started. The bus will travel to Cabot, Vt., to the cheese factory, with stops at McDonald's and Lincoln Inn for dinner. The charge will be $20. This does not include food. The next meeting will be at The Birches in Gorham, N.H. on Sept. 11.

A delicious buffet was served with Lindley Wieden and Bud Paine at the grills. The auction following the picnic was fun and earned $84. Silver Savers should be turned in at the next meeting.

On the sick list are: Henry Robertson, Bill Bancroft, Donald Bennett, Bruce Smith, Harold Powell and Polly Wieden.

August birthdays include: Dorothy Bean, Lola Bisson, Betty Blake, Colleen Boyd, Jeannette Kimball, Arlene Lowell, Irene Ormorio, Eunice Powell, Irene Russell, Betty Ann Smith, Verna Thayer and John Winslow.

The club is grateful for a beautiful day and the hospitality of Eunice and Harold Powell.

ELLIS RIVER GYMKHANA

On Saturday, Aug. 31, and Sunday, Sept. 1, there will be a two-day Gymkhana sponsored by the Ellis River Riders at their show grounds off Route 5 in Andover. Shows start at 9 a.m. sharp and are held rain or shine. Classes include Junior, Senior Novice, Senior and Open. Ribbons through sixth place, with day-end and two-day trophies will be awarded in each division. Spectators are welcome. Admission and parking are free. The food booth will offer a full menu of home-cooked food. For more information call Annette at 364-3740.

Bethel

by Phyllis Dock
Sixty-three senior citizens met at the Stony Brook Camp-ground last Wednesday where they enjoyed the beautiful weather and good food.

Robert Greenleaf and daughter Nancy, of North Scituate, RI, spent the Bicentennial weekend with Arlene Brown.

Other weekend visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Mark Greenleaf and family; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Greenleaf and family of Providence, R.I.; and Arlene Greenleaf and family; Danna, George and Kate Nickerson, as well as John Greenleaf and family all enjoyed an impromptu supper with 23 family members.

Ruth Silver has returned home from Maine Medical Center, following major back surgery. Her daughter has been with her for several days.

Jessica Thompson from Ottawa, Ontario and James Dearborn of Buxton were weekend guests of Stanley Howe.

Some thoughts -- A Trilogy:

"About Saints and Sinners"

The weeds in my garden do grow, and are a great pest as you know. Yet, sometimes they cover their more sensitive brother, and together survive frost and snow.

"About Selflessness"

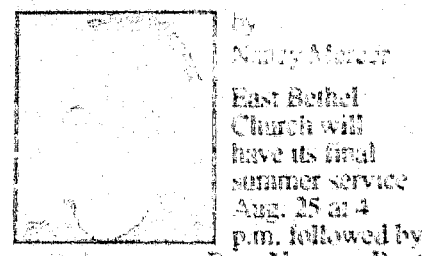

The beautiful cup which freely gives, must be itself refilled.

Or drained and drained it, too, will fail. Nor help to you or me.

"About Religion"

The drowning man who finds support asks not his Savior's creed. A man-made raft or fallen tree he blesses for its deed.

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans met at the Grange Hall on Monday, Aug. 12, for a regular meeting. Nine members were present. Kathleen McAllister filled in as Jr. Vice President. A thank you was read from Eleanor Pugliese for the card sent to her. A list of Dept. Officers from Dept. Sec. was read and the officers are the same as last year.

Next meeting is Monday, Sept. 9, with Denise Swan and Elena Noyes on refreshment committee. Twenty-four were reported. Harriett Estes received the mystery package. Elsie Bonney had photos of the Convention, Initiation and Civil War Reenactment.

Every Wednesday at 3:30 and Thursday at 7 p.m. is Bryant Pond hour on Channel IV T.V. Fifty-five attended the Sunday School picnic at Rob and Norma Davis' home last Friday. A good time was had by all.

There was a good crowd at the Grange Variety Show last Friday. This was a fundraiser to do repairs to the hall.

Beatrice and John Chase called on her mother, Beatrice Farnum, on Sunday evening.

Tuesday evening, Beatrice Farnum; Alice and Ken Hoyt; Jim Hoyt; Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover; JoAnn, David, Ray and Shawn Crockett joined Lauretta and Kelli Sanborn; Kelli's friend; and Al Sanborn for a cookout at Lauretta's home.

On Wednesday, Bob Hoyt visited his parents, Alice and Ken, and his grandmother, Beatrice Farnum.

The historical society news: Curator Larry Billings is pleased with the attendance at the museum this year and hopes everyone who came enjoyed seeing the exhibits.

He also thanks all the society members for their help. The society has many antiques and books on antiques and collectibles in its library. Thanks to all the newspaper correspondents who have given publicity to the society. When the public is aware of what the society is doing, they are interested in supporting it. At the August meeting, the members visited the West Paris Historical Society and had the annual picnic there. Harlan Abbott and Vern Inman gave a tour of the building. Members were thanked for their work on History Day. The society is grateful for the hospitality of the West Paris Historical Society. Larry Billings has given a hunting scene, and a large sea shell to the society. He attended the Bethel Bicentennial and enjoyed the celebration.

Andover

by Karen McKay
The Andover Loggers' softball team has been doing great this season. The team is the first belonging to the Tri-Town Softball League of Mexico to compete in the Maine State and New England States tournaments. They finished fifth in a field of 32 teams while playing the district tournament in Lewiston in July. They progressed to the State tournament in Waterville, and were invited to play in the New England Regionals to be played in Lewiston. The top six winning teams will then travel to the National playoffs. Andover players on the Loggers' team include Duayne Jodrey, Kenny Jodrey, Tim Downs, Danny Thurston, Scott Spaulding, Bob Chase, Brian Chase and former resident Mike Dunn. Others playing on the team include Glen Porter of Dixfield, and Dan Lahey, Robert Miller, Barry Brenton and Mike Lepage all of the Rumford area. Brad Stewart also participated with the team in the New England Regionals. Good luck team!

Former resident Ann Summerton Reinhardt and husband Craig and children, James (11), Daniel (9), and Elizabeth (7), of Durango, Colo., were in town visiting friends and family recently. The Reinhardts stayed with Rhonda and Richie Jodrey and Darren while they were in Andover for several days. Following their visit they returned to Milo to visit with Ann's mother, Bertha Summerton, and other relatives.

Wedding congratulations to Kevin Morton and Kelly Hallacy of Rumford Point who were wed on Aug. 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Farrington on Farmer's Hill. John Thurston of Farmington was the best man. Tina Farrington, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Candace Hall, daughter of the bride was the ring bearer. The newlyweds traveled to Vermont on their honeymoon and will reside on Main Street. Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morton of East Andover. Kelly is the daughter of Marie Hallacy of Hanover and the late David Hallacy.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bodwell entertained his mother, Mrs. Marion Bodwell of Bethel, recently.

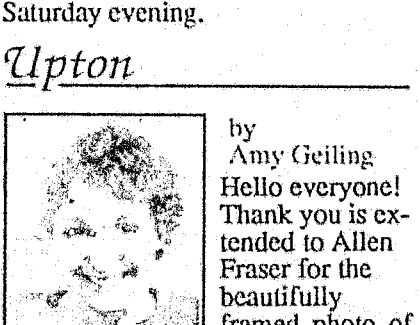

Josh Hansen, former patient at CMMC has enjoyed spending time at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Manning and family.

Kerry Merrill of Mexico is recovering well following heart surgery on July 30. He called on friends while in town recently.

Violet Swain's hollyhocks now measure 10 feet, 1 inch and 9 feet, 4 inches tall.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale McKay enjoyed several guests over the weekend; Lynn Thurston of Phillips stayed overnight, and Teen and Mark Woodruff of Bar Mills visited Saturday evening.

Upton

by Amy Geiling
Hello everyone! Thank you is extended to Allen Fraser for the beautifully framed photo of the "oldest known photo of downtown Upton" (Route 26 building). We have it proudly hung in the store.

School will begin in SAD44 on Aug. 28 and in Errol, N.H., on Sept. 3. Sorry to hear of School Superintendent Ronald Jenkins' resignation. Scott Lavallee will be seeing good grades this year with his new glasses. Looking good, Scott!

Stars and stripes were raised on the Margaret Mitchell lot and the coat of arms appeared on the Fog-will lot for the arrival of Tex Fog-will. Tex has taken an extended leave of absence from work with a national major security company where he is an instructor of security officers. His return to God's country is for R&R, and most importantly to help Margaret with preparation for the 12th Annual Homecoming. Guests always enjoy the peace and tranquility from the top of the hill of Upton. Thirty-six attended, ranging in age from 8 to 86. Those present were: Tex's sister, Tillie F. Grundy of Sebago Lake and Florida; sister Ethel Dow and husband Lee of Ocean Park; Ethel's family, Ed Presby Jr., Elaine, Danny and Donna Presby, their daughter Eryn; Kris and Nate Johnson of Old Orchard; sister-in-law Felicia Griffin of Westbrook; sister-in-law Muriel Fiedler of Portland and Florida, her family, Muriel Anne Scott of Boothbay; Judie and Jerry Conley and Jerry's mother Theresa Conley all of Portland; Margaret's daughter Jackie Fedchenko; granddaughters Andrea, Aimee Fedchenko and Wendy and Jim Trotter; great-grandchildren, Christine, Robbie and Sara of New Hampshire. Robbie bought a Homer harmonica at the Balsams and really picked up on it quickly. Go Robbie, Go! Also attending: grandson Joel Fedchenko, great-grandchildren Miranda and Paul of Vermont; and son-in-law Jackie Donovan. Invited guests were Bobby Hall, Paul Dunham, Melissa Moodie, Pat Meserve and Christa Woodward.

Sorely missed was the group from Georgetown, Texas. Tillie's daughter and son-in-law, Ann and Joe Rizzo and their family couldn't attend due to a serious heart attack of a member of the family. Margaret's prayers for a beautiful sunny day were answered.

Wendy Trotter of New Hampshire spent several days last week with her grandmother, Margaret Mitchell, on Back Street, accompanied by her children, Christine and Sara, her nephew Robbie and friends Melissa and Christa. They tented out on the Cameron lot. They visited Screw Auger Falls, Moose Cave, Mother Walker Falls and hated to go home. Grandma Mitchell enjoyed it all!

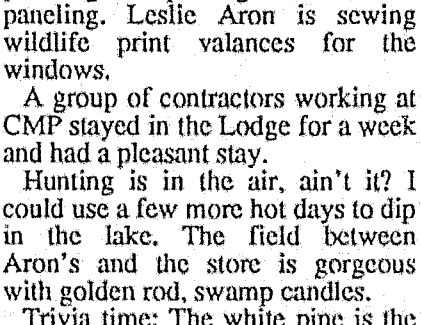

Interior work is being done at Bull Moose Campground. New cedar paneling is replacing the old, dark paneling. Leslie Aron is sewing wildlife print valances for the windows.

A group of contractors working at CMP stayed in the Lodge for a week and had a pleasant stay.

Hunting is in the air, ain't it? I could use a few more hot days to dip in the lake. The field between Aron's and the store is gorgeous with golden rod, swamp candles.

Trivia time: The white pine is the most important timber tree in the northeast. As written in "Trees," by Andreas Feininger, "It's one of the tallest trees, with old specimens growing up to 220 feet, boards 36 inches wide and wider can still be found in the colonial homes in New England."

North Newry

by Gil Seely
Norman and Eleanor Davis had a family gathering July 30, with a lobster cookout.

Her brother Warren Hunter and wife Ann, from Wichita Falls, Texas, were there. Other family members were the Hanscoms, daughter Wendy and husband Brian, their children Jay, Adam, Eric and Kelsie; son Kenneth and Rose Davis and Jenna; and guests Freda and Leslie Robertson.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seely, Eleanor Davis, Louise Telley and Doris Parent, members of the Newry Bowling Gang, were at the Oxford Lanes one day last week. On the overall scores, Gil was high on the singles, but Karlene was high on the triples, beating Betsy by two pins and Gil by three pins. Of the righties, Doris was high on the triples and singles, beating Louise by three pins on the singles. Karlene had three spares. Betsy had five and Gil had two.

Happy birthday to Sue Wight on the 23rd, and Amy Robertson on the 23rd. Also happy birthday to that "Rascal" Ras Bachelder, who tries to fool us into thinking that he is younger than his wife Karlene, but we are wise to him by now. "Age is suspicious, but is not itself often suspected. Ha! Men, like peaches and pears, grow sweet a little while before they begin to get...saucy? Ha! Also happy birthday to Chris Toti in Rhode Island, my nephew's son who is a wannabe Pres?

Karlene's mother, Julia Goodwin, spent some time here in North Newry last week, taking in the bowling gang contest, some shopping and a birthday party for Beth Bean at the town building with Karlene, Sylvia Gray and yours truly. Ice cream and cake were enjoyed. Then a get-together dinner at Karlene's. Then back home in Unity. Bye, bye! See you again sometime.

Briefly: Dole and Kemp, a marriage of convenience, or a love-hate match? Will they live happily forever after?

Mandy Berry spent a month in Daytona, Fla. Her brother Jason went down the last week of July and flew home with her.

West Paris

by Miriam Inman
Jack and Davine Davis of Florida and Lewiston and Bob and Dottie Lyons of Florida and Wells visited with Sarah Doughty last weekend. They are neighbors in Okeechobee, Fla.

Vance and Connie Bacon, Stan and Maxine Cram were camping at Winslow State Park this past weekend. Carmen and Audrey Hadley spent the day with them on Saturday.

Lisa Latno, Ben and Roman were also camping at Winslow State Park for the weekend, along with her friend Joan Douglas and Derek.

Julie Veysay has been spending some time each week with her grandmother, Louvie Coffin. I'm sure it makes Louvie pretty happy.

The Senior Citizens recently went to Captain Newicks for dinner and then went on a boat ride from the Casco Bay Line in Portland. They stopped at the Diamond, Beal and Long Islands. It was a lovely day, so it was a nice trip.

The E.B. Forbes Goodwill Group met on Tuesday with Avis Stethorn. Donna Melville of Woodland has been here for two weeks, staying with her brother Ivan Proctor Jr., while their father was at a Rural Letter Carriers Convention. Dennis Melville of Bridgton visited with his mother last weekend.

Joyce Lamb has returned home from her summer's employment at Camp Susan Curtis.

Forward Fellowship will meet on Monday, Aug. 26, with Berly Bonney on Round Pond. Pokemo will be the entertainment.

Sunday, Andy and aunt and uncle, Norma Peterson at their home Street in Lewiston. We lunch with them and cousins Ellie and Fritz will turn 94.

Norma will be 83, and look as if they were all younger. Usually they camp at Naples this time Fritz had taken a fall and to go for therapy on leg. Norma has a ceramic in their basement and me all of the figurines and also her doll collection were all delightful. She home. Before we I Norma's daughter Ruth husband who stopped events of the Bicentennial and then being out on were pretty tired for days. We just aren't Fritz and Norma!

I meant last week to Al and Crystal Lake their names out when about Pastor Rob Ray birthday party. But I So, apologies folks, should not have forg since she was the one that I had a glass of with my cake. Shame o

The Greenstock Snowmobile Snow Sports Club of Greenwood and Woodstock have a fundraiser going on. They've sold tickets for 20 weekly drawings of $25 each. The last drawing, which will also include drawings for $950, $500 and $250, will be held Dec. 14. The first name drawn on Aug. 3 was Jason Moody of Nebraska, who is the grandson of Bernie and Mary Getchell of Bryant Pond. On Aug. 10, the name of Beryl Bonney of West Paris, who also has a camp on Round Pond, was drawn. If you are interested in participating in this fundraiser, there is still time. Just call Richard Wakefield.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary will meet Monday, Aug. 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station. Anyone is welcome to join. At least come in and look us over. We think we are a pretty good bunch and you just might think so too.

Owen and Debbie Brown's dog, Bandit, and Jake's dog Cosmo, met up with an unwelcome visitor at their camp on North Pond Wednesday night. They ended up with a nice dose of porcupine quills. Cosmo ended up having to spend the night at the vets. What a bummer!

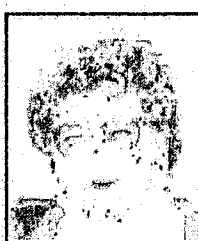

What lovely weather we've been having. I was so glad the weather was so good for last weekend. Andy and I took in the pageant which was fun and informative. On Saturday we were trying to get into Bethel to see the parade and everywhere we went, someone said we couldn't go that way, so we parked in the Western Maine parking lot and, lo and behold, along came the Church of the Nazarene float, and before we knew it, we were not watching the parade but were in it. It was fun to sing the old hymns and see all the people. Then we had lunch at a local eatery. We wanted to go to a church supper but waited too long for the first seating and then they ran out of food at the second. So we ended up back at a restaurant for the evening meal. After taking in the music at the common, we found a perfect parking spot by the boys' dorm to watch the fireworks. It certainly was a spectacular display and we were in just the right place so it looked as if the brilliance was going to fall right on us. Then, once again, one turned from spectator to participant, which made the whole day complete.

Sunday, Andy and I visited his aunt and uncle, Norma and Fritz Peterson at their home on Russell Street in Lewiston. We had a lovely lunch with them and with his cousins Ellie and Fred Peterson. Fritz will turn 94 this fall and Norma will be 83, and they act and look as if they were at least 20 years younger. Usually they are at their camp at Naples this time of year, but Fritz had taken a fall and was having to go for therapy on his ankle and leg. Norma has a ceramic workshop in their basement and she showed me all of the figurines she has made and also her doll collection. They were all delightful. She has a lovely home. Before we left, we met Norma's daughter Ruth Ann and her husband who stopped by. After the events of the Bicentennial weekend and then being out on Sunday, we were pretty tired for a couple of days. We just aren't as young as Fritz and Norma!

I meant last week to apologize to Al and Crystal Lake for leaving their names out when I wrote up about Pastor Rob Rainville's 40th birthday party. But I forgot again. So, apologies folks. Certainly I should not have forgotten Crystal, since she was the one who saw to it that I had a glass of punch to go with my cake. Shame on me!

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Curtis from Reading, Mass., are here at their camp at Lake Keewaydin. Martha and Neal Littlefield have been here from Virginia and visiting with their folks. Dale and Kitty Nelson, Matthew and Molly are home from Seaford, Va., after visiting Dale's sister and

by

Sharon Traish, Aisha and Nowal from Belmont, Mass., were at their cottage at Lake Keewaydin last weekend. While here, they held a birthday party for her mother, Eleanor Nelson. Those present were Albert Nelson Sr.; Dale, Kitty, Molly and Matthew; Albert Jr. and Carole, Eric and Troy and friend; Jarod from Auburn; and Dianne Leighton and Max.

Corey Jones has terminated his job at Lovell Lumber and is now employed by C.F. Barker Inc. Eric Nelson is working at McFarlin Steel in Fryeburg. Sometimes it's hard to keep up with these young people.

Brenda Wiley from Boxboro, Mass., and two friends have been spending a week at their cottage at Lake Keewaydin.

Gus Fillebrown has been doing carpenter work for Carleton Barker and Skip Durant has been painting for him.

Cheryl and Paul Barnard and Jenna, Joshua, and Lindsey from Seaford, Va. are in East Stoneham visiting her parents and brothers and other relatives and friends.

I'm late again this week and hope this makes the paper in time. Almost every day someone tells me they read these items, so sorry if I miss one.

The road by here is nice and black and smooth now, and this past week, the yellow lines were painted on it. This helps a lot when driving, especially at night.

The turkey supper at the East Stoneham Church was well attended. These suppers involve an awful lot of work and time. They are very good. The sales tables outside did very good also. Thanks go to all who helped on these projects which help keep the church active, and in repair.

On Tuesday, I attended the Oxford County Republican BBQ and meeting at the Fryeburg Fairgrounds with Ralph and Harriette Brown and Kate Flynn. This was good as usual and it sure seems good to see Kate up and about again. There were about 75 people there. It was a good supper and meeting. The mosquitoes thought so too!

The Lewis Dana Hill Memorial Library in North Lovell was recently painted by the inmate work crew from the Oxford County Jail. The supervisor overseeing their efforts was Jody Carman. The library board really appreciates the great, professional job that they did. The people at the library tell me that they have some great new books on the shelves and welcome any suggestions for new books to order. The library is open on Tuesdays, 5 to 8 p.m., and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to noon.

Frances Grant and Eleanor Nelson visited with Iva Fox one day last week. Paul Taylor from New Hampshire was in town over the weekend taking care of things at Gladys Kilgore's home and calling on relatives and friends.

Don't forget the East Stoneham Thrift Store has different items coming in each week, also the bake sales are still on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Come in and chat a while even if you don't buy. The "fill a grocery bag for $1" is still going on. (Clothing and shoes, sweaters, jackets, curtains, etc.)

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Curtis from Reading, Mass., are here at their camp at Lake Keewaydin. Martha and Neal Littlefield have been here from Virginia and visiting with their folks. Dale and Kitty Nelson, Matthew and Molly are home from Seaford, Va., after visiting Dale's sister and family for a week.

On Sunday, Aug. 4, we attended the Ellis River Riders Horse Show in Andover, where Molly was a participant. She won first in the Walk/Trot Egg and Spoon; second in the Walk/Trot Equitation; and third in the Jr. English Equitation. She got three ribbons and a bag of horse grain which made her a reserved champion. She did this with "Jose," her leased horse. He really did better than she expected. Her friend, Diane Cottrell from Massachusetts won in several classes and was named overall champion, I believe, and received a beautiful trophy. Of course their instructor, Dianne Leighton, won in several classes.

I almost didn't write news this last week, but had to wait a few hours today at Ripley's for the car, so what a better way to while away the time. While waiting away the time at McDonald's, writing this bit, I met up with an old shoe shop office pal, Roberta Harlow, and we had a nice chat. I also got some exercise. I guess it was meant to be.

Laurence and Mildred Dadmun were here at their home from Damirascotta.

Troy Nelson started work full time at Bridgton this week.

On Sunday, Aug. 25 from 2 to 5 p.m., there will be an open house honoring Mike and June Inman at their home in Albany for their 25th anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halle of Lisbon Falls spent a day last week with her mother, Phyllis Bancroft. They mowed the lawn and helped with other chores.

Visitors of Phyllis and Bill were Billy Rich and wife from Londonderry, N.H.

I returned home Monday morning after spending last week with Dottie and Herbie Adams at their camp on Howard Pond. We attended the Bethel Bicentennial Pageant Friday evening and the parade on Saturday. Both were grand productions!

Brittany and Daniel Eichel have returned home to Texas after visiting at the Wentzell cottage.

Their father Wayne and son Matthew visited his parents and grandmother.

Many people were pleased to see Mrs. Millie Wentzell riding in an open car at the head of the parade, along with Phil Daye and Bill Young, 97 and 96 years old, all former residents of Bethel.

Other visitors of the Eichels and her mother have been Mrs. Shirley Keene and daughters Ashley, Audrey and Haley from Hilton, N.Y., and Mrs. Betty Keene from Sebago. Spending the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Erland Wentzell of Sebago and Stanley Wentzell of Kingston, NH. Some day visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson from Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson and little daughter Erin from Waterbury, Conn.; and Mrs. Dorothy Eichel from Shelburne, N.H.

Monday visitors here were Mrs. Mary Ellen Connolly and son Nicholas from New Jersey; her daughter Megan from Portland; Sean Connolly from Falmouth; Leroy and Bertha Hunter from Unity; Ethel and Craig Turner; and her daughter Sarah of Otisfield.

With Herbie and Dottie Adams of Hanover, I recently attended a Hunter/Grass family reunion at the new recreation park in Unity. Over 75 relatives and friends attended from Mars Hill, Augusta, Bangor, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Florida, Iowa, Colorado, Prince Edward Island, and Saudi Arabia. Before dinner, a memorial service for my nephew, Richard Hunter, who passed away last fall, was conducted by a close family friend, the Rev. Richard Reynolds of Bangor.

The important thing about your lot in life is whether you use it for parking or building.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

"The village lies so quiet and still, as the moon rises over the hill, creating a painting for all to see, a winter world of fantasy," Cory Sparks.

This poem describes the evening as I took a short walk to say good night to the world, the moon and the stars. The trees were etched on the evening sky while the clouds, like ships, were drifting by. The branches rustled, while above, the pine crowned hills were myriads of twinkling stars.

This week we have had fog in our valley. Some mornings the hill tops emerged first into the sunlight, while the fog lay late near the ponds like a fat white roll of substantial cotton. But most days have been beautiful.

I looked toward Lady Slipper Lodge. I had visited it many times in summers past. I recalled the harmonious blending of cheerfulness and gloom as I went beneath the pines, the light and shade.

The ground was covered with a smooth brown matting. This prevents the growth of underbrush. The tree trunks resemble pillars rising out of the floor of a huge temple.

Maine still has marvelous spaciousness, free from the pressure-cooker tensions of so many places.

The sun today was bright and the water covered with diamonds. Among the hemlocks, the jays were curious as cats, and the air filled with "dee-dee" birds. When I reached home, a woodpecker broke the silence with his tap tap on the corner of the cabin. He was telling me his food was gone and he wanted to eat.

I looked no farther, lest the nearer beauty be lost in the vastness of space.

My niece Sharon Jones and her husband Ronald of Greenville came to visit me one day last week. I was very pleased to see them again. It was a highlight in my upset week -- my refrigerator "died" one night this week. That meant carrying all that was in it down to the freezer in the basement, plus buying a new refrigerator and having it put in. It doesn't sound like much work, but it was for me. Perhaps it was my age talking to me. I still have two unsolved mysteries.

David and Mary were at the farm on Sunday.

This week Linda Tyler had a cookout. Louise Chapman, Alison Day, Sue Silver, Tony Silver, Joelle and Errol Silver, Malcolm, Tammy, Shane and Bridget Billings all attended.

Rossann Broomhall and Carroll Verrill had two very large gatherings recently.

Rob and Norma Davis and Kara Jacques went to visit Crystal Jacques in the hospital. Crystal had a baby girl, Jasmin Lynn, on Aug. 8. Also, Paul McInnis came to visit Rob and Norma. They all picked blueberries.

A Sunday School picnic was held at Rob and Norma's and well over 50 people attended. They all had fun despite the rain.

That's it.

Howdy friends.
This is Aug. 13
and it is rather on the cloudy side, but maybe you are getting some sunshine.

Thursday, we went to the home of Carl and Lettie Brooks in West Paris to pick up some equipment to be used at the Variety Show.

Friday evening, we helped out at the Variety Show. We had a good turnout of people and we hope that all enjoyed the show. Several people spoke about what a nice show it was. Quite a lot of refreshments were sold at intermission and this also helped the Grange with the building improvement fund. Several door prizes were given during the show. We want to thank each and every one that attended the show and helped make it the success that it was.

Peggy and Doc Merrill attended the dance at West Paris Grange, where they had quite a nice crowd to enjoy the music and dancing.

Sunday was a beautiful day and not too hot, so I spent nearly all day digging weeds and grass in the garden. I can't work in the garden when it is so hot and humid, so the weeds grow a little faster, just to show what they can do.

Hope Lovejoy is selling blueberries at Haverhens on King Hill.

Lona and Bill Bedard called at Lovejoy's to get some raspberries recently.

There will be a dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Aug. 24 with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. I don't know if there will be dancing on Aug. 31.

Oxford Pomona Grange will be having installation of officers at Oxford Grange on Sept. 3. The meeting will be preceded by a 6:30 potluck supper. On Sept. 5, officers of West Paris and Franklin Granges will all be installed at West Paris Grange.

In Memory of Raymond Williams

Who left us August 24, 1987.
We love you and miss you. It's been a long time - wife and your daughter.
Love Olive Williams, Irene Stanish

In Loving Memory of Richard G. Hutchins on his 32nd Birthday August 24, 1964

There will always be a heartache.
And often silent tears,
But always the precious memories of him
the days he was here.
We hold him close within our hearts,
And there he will remain,
To walk with us through our darkest hours,
Until we meet again.
Remembering him is easy,
We do it everyday,
But missing him is a heartache
that never goes away.
A special smile, a special face,
A special son we can never replace.

Sadly missed by Mom, Nana & Family
